Ramblings In Japan

by T. Geo. Wood.

We had a fine briefing on Kyoto by our friends the Gottschalls, who entertained us at dinner, and advised us on sights to see and enjoy.

These folks are real authorities on Japanese culture, having served here for over ten years. We enjoyed especially their collections of pottery and lacquer ware, each piece typical of true craftsmanship.

So, when we reached the Kyoto district, we looked for these things. Here is the proud centre, for a thousand years, of the handicrafts of the country.

Visit then, with us, these art industries in Central and Southern Honshu. You will admire the results of hundreds of years of experienced work by real artists in creation. We will first visit a lacquer plant, Nishimura, established in 1657. Their display room showed thousands of pieces, ranging from spoons to Emperors' cabinets. Not for sale were museum pieces 400 years old. They have a small exhibition workshop to illustrate their workmen and processes, but most of the work is done in the homes.

The ingredients of lacquer were cypress wood, which never warps or splits. Lacquer is tapped like rubber from a very poisonous tree. Linnen is then stretched over the wood, joints filled with powdered wood, lacquer juice and rice paste. Then comes coat after coat of lacquer, each rubbed down with charcoal powder and dried slowly in a naturally damp atmosphere. Drying takes place for about ten months.

In the same way gold designs, or shell or pearl, are transferred and gold dust sprinkled—many times—dried and polished. The final polishes are given with powdered magnolia charcoal and powdered Deer Horn, with a little vegetable oil—the hand only being used as the polisher. Can you realize why good lacquerware is expensive and will last as an heirloom for five centuries or more?

Now we will go to Ori Doni, or to Tatumura. Both of these silk firms are established in garden estates. These gardens were planned 350 years ago and represent the ideal of Japanese gardening:— Hillsides, old trees, bodies of water, rock walls, carp fish and turtles.

Silks displayed in galleries, in the old house rooms, have a tremendous fascination for our womenfolk, and pocketbooks, of men and women open often.

They showed silk manufacture, by fingernail and hand weaving to us. One man, over 70 years old, has worked over 50 years on the same loom. He weaves nothing but obi brocades for wedding dresses—using over 40 different threads and colors, many of them in gold, silver and metallic threads. These wedding garments are so expensive that they take sometimes years of savings to purchase.

This can be understood when you find, that only two inches of fabric can be woven in a twelve hour day. So that 6 yards, the obi length, requires 160 working days. These silks and the brocades for the priests of Shinto or Buddha are among the most gorgeous fabrics of mankind.

Now for Uchida! Here they manufacture and deal in wood block prints. Once more the patient artistry of the people is evidenced.

To make a good wood block print, in color, calls for a painted design in water colors. Then transfers from a series of wood blocks, chiselled and cut from cherry wood, for each shade 14 or 15 in all, each rubbed on the paper, in soft color, by Baren, made of bamboo sheaths. The register is perfect and the soft colors, an mulberry bark paper, are delightful.

The historic prints were mostly made during Edo period reaching the peak in the 18th century. They are called Ukiyo-e and represent scenes in everyday life, portraits of famous actors and geisha of those days. They are costly.

Modern prints flood the country and cost little, actually they suit our taste better because they are produced with time honored, but improved, techniques, all by hand.

An educational oil exhibit, under the auspices of Imperial Oil Ltd., illustrating the various techniques used in hunting for and producing oil was opened officially Monday by Hon. A. O. Aalborg, Minister of Education, in the Macdonald hotel, Edmonton. The exhibit is open to the general public each day from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. "The display is of particular interest to teachers and students," Mr. Aalborg remarked. The above photo shows a group of visitors inspecting the animated seismograph panel.

She wore a beaded headdress with three-quarter-length veil and carried a white orchid and a white hyacinth on her white bible.

Her attendants were Mary Orban, Maid of Honor, and bridesmaids Bernice Czech, Ethel Horvath, Eileen Kazma, Mary Polzer and Anne Gaszler. They wore semi-formal gowns in pastel shades of blue and mauve. The Maid of Honor's bouquet was of baby mums and sweet peas, while those of the bridesmaids were gladioli and sweet peas.

Mr. James of Priest River, was best man, and ushers were Andy Horvath, Pat Hanna, John Kazma, Orlan Yeaw and Louis Baler.

The mother of the bride and groom wore dresses of flowered nylon and pale blue respectively. Both carried corsages of red roses.

The wedding music was played by Bernice Pvelka and Valeria Czech sang a solo. The reception was held in the Coaldale Community Hall.

For her honeymoon trip to Calgary and Banff, the bride chose a beige box suit with red accessories. The happy young couple will make their home in Priest River.

Guests were present from Raymond, Cayley, Milk River, Taber, Lethbridge and Priest River, Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mendenhall, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson, Mrs. Martha Taylor and Mrs. Yamazaki all attended the graduation of their daughters in Lethbridge Wednesday.

Tom Karaki won the fishing derby sponsored by the local Fish and Game Association with a three pound trout. Ben Kindt's two pound, 12 oz. catch was good for second prize and Tami Moriyama won third place with a one pound 14 oz. fish dinner. About 30 piscatorial artists took part in the derby which was held at Mami Lake.

Mrs. Mary ensen of Lethbridge visited relatives here Wednesday.

Friends and members of the Prescribes pleasantly surprised Mrs. Sally Hippard Sunday night on the occasion of her birthday. Slides of England and the U.S. were shown and a delicious lunch was served.

The time of the year has come around again when the Chamber of Commerce has to get out and draw unto itself some of the credit that august body has been building up during the past couple of years.

Things like the hard surfaced highway, Main Street surfacing, and Natural Gas being piped in, don't just up and happen! Somebody has to be the moving spirit behind every gain that is made in the community, even if this is not immediately apparent.

The Chamber of Commerce was formed for just this very purpose, and up to now, has done a very creditable job, and one for which they deserve not only a hearty vote of thanks, but also a boost in the right direction in the coming year.

Any day now, Delia oolf, (commercial) or Joe Linitski (individual) will be around to see if you will give the Raymond and District Chamber of Commerce your moral and financial support. In other words, the membership drive is on. Give Delia and Joe a good listen, will you, while they explain the ins and outs of the organization to you? I'm sure you will find it is worthy of your support.

Baskets of lilacs, tulips, gladioli, pink and white streamers, blue birds and bells decorated the setting for the bride who wore a gown of tiered lace over satin with a fingertip veil held in place with a pearl trimmed Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and gladioli. Assisting as Matron of Honor was Gertrude Hudson, wearing an old-rose semi formal gown trimmed with pink, and flower girl Jane Coppieters, who was dressed in yellow. Both girls carried bouquets of pink carnations and white marguerites.

The best man was Bruce Steed, brother of the groom.

For the occasion, the bride's mother wore a printed silk dress with a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother chose a rose dress and a pink carnation corsage. Also in the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. David Steed, grandparents of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Steed will be living in Vauxhall for the summer, later making their home in Edmonton where Mr. Steed intends to finish his last year at University, where he is studying Engineering.

Out of town guests came from Cardston, Spring Coulee, Mountain View, Magrath and Welling.

The work crews of National Paving returned to town with the return of warm and dry weather to repair the soft spots in the road before the seal coat is applied. Because of the extremely wet weather this spring, moisture has seeped through the oil base in many places causing a break in the road. This has necessitated the tearing up of the oil base to allow the road to dry out completely. The entire road from Raymond to Craddock will probably have to be taken up for this purpose, as well as some spots west of town.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Madill of Vancouver are visiting their many friends here, and while in Raymond, are staying with the S. B. Cards.

L C Halmrast Again Nominated For Warner Constituency

Social Credit nominating convention was held at Warner Memorial Library Wednesday, June 8th, where a crowd of between 40 and 50 were present.

Alberta's Minister of Agriculture, Hon. L. C. Halmrast of the Warner Constituency and the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. E. W. Hinman of the Cardston Constituency, were present; Mr. Hinman being the guest speaker.

Hon. Leonard C. Halmrast, Provincial Minister of Agriculture was nominated by Mr. Perry Barton of Stirling, farmer, and seconded by Mr. Russell Lawrence of Milk River, T. W. Meldrum of Raymond, President of the Warner Constituency Social Credit Association was in the chair. No other nominations were forthcoming, and Mr. Halmrast was elected by acclamation. In Mr. Halmrast's address he stated that one of the reasons for calling a provincial election was to be able, personally, to go to the people, and tell them of the true state of affairs and the accusations that were cast upon them by the Liberal leader, J. Harper Prowse.

Mr. Halmrast stated that it was the duty of the opposition to find fault and criticize the government, but when they get so low that when they can't find any fault with the government that they take other means such as personal abuse and character assassination of the different members, then they are going beyond the limit for which their power was intended and it was no use carrying on any longer without going to the people of the province. Mr. Halmrast explained why J. C. Landeryou, MLA for Lethbridge and Roy S. Lee, MLA for Taber had to vacate their seats during the last session of the legislature.

He also mentioned the Chestermere Lake jail site issue and stated that the government had received apologies; when the public accounts committee gave their hearings.

He said the old line parties realize they can't get in power so they have reverted to other methods of ousting the Social Crediters from the government.

On the Treasury Branch issue, he stated it was just a small technicality. When J. Harper Prowse was notified that he could be disqualified as an MLA because he holds a contract with the government with his tele-

Club Meeting

— The President

That is the only way to hold meetings — with a club! Especially if all the other members are female.

Every Friday night, the Proscribes have a meeting in the Recorder office at 8 o'clock.

Every Friday night, being president as well as the only member of the club who has a key that will go it, I open the door of the office at 7:45, enter, see that enough chairs are available, look through my notes and texts, take a longing look up and down the street, then, grimly, settle down to wait.

Between 8:25 and 8:30 the secretary (a delightful girl, really, she hasn't missed a meeting) hurries in like she has just finished running the 26-mile-300-yard Boston Marathon and begins to puff excuses, three at a time.

If she would only send those horrible tales to "Fantastic Stories" she would make at least a million.

We generally have time to plan a schedule for the meeting, exchange a few items of gossip about the members yet to appear, discuss the merits of the writing in two or three books, and perhaps, even write a passage or two in whatever epic either of us happens to be writing at the moment, before anyone else decides to show up for the "8 o'clock" meeting.

All I need is one more for a quorum, and believe me, no matter who shows up next the show is on the road. By 9:25, I usually feel justified in the belief that only one or two more will show up, so we all adjourn to the York where the real business of the evening gets under way.

For the first few sessions, I tried to get all the business finished so that we could have a little social over a soda to end the night, but the ladies (Bless 'em) soon showed me where I was wrong. Do you know, women actually do lots better work when they can keep their minds off it? Why, the stories, poems, ideas, suggestions fly around the table like bees around the hive, and the dear souls actually aren't thinking of a thing, just gossiping!

And there's still room for more. If you think you can take it, drop around to the Recorder office some Friday night and join in.

If you would like a nice long, quiet chat with me, make it about 8 o'clock. That's when the meeting starts.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Isaacson of Cardston, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Isaacson and family and Mrs. Arlene Wendell and children of Lethbridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Piegrass were guests at the Hazel Rebalkin home Sunday.

Miss Joan Rebalkin entertained a group of friends who helped her to celebrate her 8th birthday Saturday. After the games, lunch was also enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Card, Mrs. Vanda Gray and Mrs. Sadie Kinsey motored to Great Falls over the week end.

Rodney Barr, accountant at the Bank of Montreal here for the past two years has been transferred to Medicine Hat, W. L. Slapp from Olds will take his place here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Finnegan of New Westminster, B.C., have been visiting friends here and in Milk River and Coult. Mrs. Finnegan is the former Bernice Olsen.

Mrs. Lottie Graham had a quilting party Wednesday afternoon. Several ladies were present to sew and to enjoy the delightful lunch.

ALBERTA WHEAT POOL PATRONAGE

The Alberta Wheat Pool intends to operate for the crop year 1955-56 on a patronage dividend basis in keeping with the co-operative principles on which the Pool was formed. The following notice is published in compliance with the provisions of the 'Income Tax Act':

"As required by 'The Income Tax Act' this will advise our members that it is our intention to make a payment in proportion to patronage in respect to the year ending the 31st day of July, 1956, and we hereby hold forth the respect of a patronage payment accordingly."

"It's time parents stopped being scared by child experts," a prominent psychologist states in the current issue of MacLean's.

Dr. D. C. Williams, professor of psychology at the University of Toronto, says parents should stop regarding the normal process of raising the family "as some sort of giant booby trap with a disapproving professional child raiser the only one who knows the trigger."

He claims there are "no experts about your child." Psychologists make important contributions to the study of the child's growth and development, he says, "but although experts have been issuing blueprints for 25 years there is no standard technique on how to raise the perfect child." Books on child psychology give handy details for raising better children, but "any book that gives specific rules to be applied to all children is a bad book."

Dr. Williams says it's a fallacy that parents must be right all the time: "Being a good parent isn't something like walking a tightrope: one slip and you've had it. Single incidents don't cause lasting trouble."

Dr. Williams charges that one of the real curses of psychology is abnormal sensitivity to mistakes. Parents don't give themselves enough credit for accomplishments. If they accept the responsibility of being wrong without undue self-criticism and enjoy their children they needn't be frightened by the experts.

Summer Mutual got away to a grand opening last week when the Fourth Ward Mutual entertained in the first of a series of 'Four Wards Nights' by staging a variety program. President Zarella Taylor was MC. Musical numbers were rendered by Lynn Stone on his trumpet and Grant Erickson on his ukelele while he sang in the Tongan language. Phil Meeks and Virginia Roloffson each gave an amusing reading. The highlight of the evening was a delightful and thrilling thirty minutes of dancing staged by about 25 of the town's youngest set, ranging in ages from five to 133. Solo tap numbers were given by Suzanne Wood, Sherry Jensen, Miriam Wilde and Sherry Helgersen. Duet tap numbers included Barbara and Marilyn Baker, Wendy Watson and Jackie Nishiyama. Group tap numbers were "The Animal Cracker Dance," the "Dutch Dance," "Cruising Down the River," "Tennessee Wig-Walk," and the "Military Dance," (this having 16 dances in it). Reed Heggie was the only boy participant. The program was climaxed by an original ballet number entitled "The Last Act of Sleeping Beauty," capably portrayed by Peggy Ann Snow, Marilyn Zemp and Eleanor Walker. Emma Dahl played for all the dances.

Prayer by Bishop Jensen brought to a close an evening enjoyed by an enthusiastic capacity crowd. "Meet you all at Mutual."

Forests Call For Public Vigilance

While thousands of trees will be planted for shelterbelts on prairie farms this year, other thousands of trees in the timber zones may be wiped out by forest fires, says a public message of the Canadian Forestry Association's Alberta Branch.

"Alberta's 93,000 square miles of productive timberlands measures more than three times the size of Scotland. Ninety per cent of these tree-covered areas are owned by the people of the province. Alberta already is the center of lively forest industries and extensive woods employment, but only the first stage of development has been reached.

"The woodland areas of the eastern slope of the Rockies are regarded as one of the most important and strategic forest regions in North America, as they are the birthplace of all the rivers that water the Western plains. These Eastern Slopes are exposed to fire hazards that can work deadly injury to farm fertility and the success of irrigation projects. The fire threat originates in the personal negligence of campers, sportsmen, woods-workers, and other users of the forested country. Such easily preventable acts of carelessness as an abandoned campfire and lighted tobacco can create a blackened countryside destined to remain a lifeless waste for fifty years or longer.

"This year, as a test of public cooperation, every Alberta citizen is being urged to regard himself as a voluntary fire-ranger every time he enters forested country. For this job he needs no badge. His sense of fair-play should be badge enough."

The Fourth Ward Primary preparation meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Nalder, Tuesday.

Miladies Literary club was held at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Dahl. Mrs. Gertie Fairbanks gave the lesson which was thoroughly enjoyed. Special guests were Mrs. Purcell, Beth Walker, Virginia Holmes, Inez Hickman and Jenny Vance.

Picnic Planning

by Consumer Section
Marketing Service

Canada Department of Agriculture

Now that the weather is nice it seems a pity to stay indoors for even a minute. So here is your excuse for getting outside. Plan a picnic. There are just two main things to be decided — the place and the food. You pick the place and as for the food here are a few tips from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture.

They suggest that in gathering together the makings for a picnic we try to make it as interesting and nourishing as a meal served at home. Chilled fresh fruit, crisp green vegetables, as well as hot foods make good eating along with the traditional fare of sandwiches, potato salad, hard cooked eggs, and pickles. Cheese also is a welcome addition to the picnic basket. For the beverage nothing could be better than cold milk, either plain or chocolate. Or if you are going quite a distance, how about taking along some instant powdered milk or frozen grape or other fruit juice concentrate. These can be mixed with fresh cold water at the picnic site.

One of the secrets of a varied picnic lies in the packing. Vegetables such as celery, carrot and green pepper sticks which contrast well in texture and flavour with sandwiches and eggs, will keep fresh in plastic bags. Kept on ice, they retain their crispness still better. Devilled eggs, sliced meat, chicken salad — in fact any cooked protein food made into sandwiches or packed separately should be kept cold, not merely cool. Even butter will stay firm if kept cold, and everyone can have fun making their own sandwiches. So keep this in mind when you are packing the food for your picnic.

If you have an insulated container for your food that should be kept cold you are all set, but if not, you can easily improvise one. A large cooking pot such as a preserving kettle with a lid makes an effective picnic "ice chest." Cover the bottom with a thick layer of crushed ice, then place the food in plastic bags or glass jars in the kettle and pack with more crushed ice. Wrap thick layers of paper or towels or a blanket around the kettle to act as an insulator. At the picnic grounds, the "ice chest" still well wrapped to keep out the heat, should be put under a tree or in some other shady spot.

Another suggestion from the Consumer Section is to fill small-sized plastic bags with crushed ice or whole ice cubes, close them securely and pack them around the glass jars or plastic bags filled with food. As the ice melts, water will form in the bags but will not spill out if they are tightly closed. Be sure to test the bags for leaks before filling them with ice. Just run water into the bags and if there are any holes the water will spout out through them.

Even though we all like to feel it can't happen to us, the danger of food poisoning is ever present and especially so during the hot summer months. At this time of year extra precautions should be taken both in preparing and keeping foods. All fresh vegetables and fruits should be thoroughly washed before eating and all cooked foods should be refrigerated, say the home economists of the Consumer Section.

It is a good idea to check your refrigerator daily for leftovers and to use them as soon as possible. Harmful germs or bacteria grow and multiply at room temperature and they thrive especially on foods made with milk, broth and gravies. For this reason then, it is very important to keep foods refrigerated, especially such cooked foods as custards, chicken salad, potato salad, poultry dressings, creamed chicken and roasted meats. If you take care in preparing these foods and the others for your picnics, and keep them cold, you need have no worries about unpleasant after-effects from your outings this summer.

Dental Training Never Too Early

The fairy godmother who rewards a youngster for placing a tooth under his pillow at night may be doing the child grave harm. If a first tooth is removed or lost too soon, serious dental troubles can result.

The adjacent teeth may "drift" toward the opening left by the lost tooth, causing the succeeding permanent teeth to appear in the wrong place.

The unhappy result may be a severe case of highly irregular second teeth and an unsightly appearance. In order to avoid this faulty tooth alignment, dentists will sometimes recommend use of a space maintainer when certain primary teeth are lost prematurely.

The belief that a child's first teeth are not important "because they will fall out anyway" has produced much damage to both teeth and appearance.

From the standpoint of general health, a child cannot chew his food properly and thoroughly with decayed teeth or if teeth are missing or badly out of proportion.

The child's first visit to the dentist should come when all his first teeth have appeared, usually between the ages of two and three.

This visit should not be deferred until the youngster needs dental treatment. It should be pleasant and free from discomfort and it is on this occasion that the dentist and the child can become good friends.

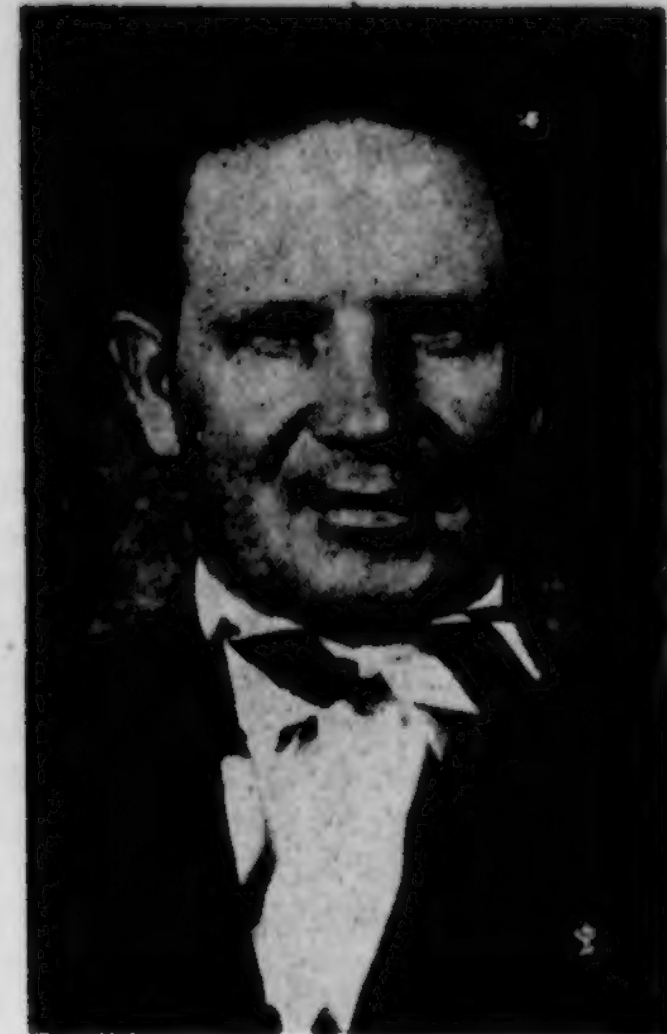

If your child can be given a happy introduction to dental care and proper dental health habits, you will be helping him to overcome one of the principal diseases of mankind.

These are the basic rules for sound dental health for children:

- (1) A balanced nutritious diet low in sweets.
- (2) Proper use of the toothbrush immediately after eating.
- (3) Early detection and treatment of dental ills to prevent more serious disease later.
- (4) Routine consumption of fluoridated water or, in the absence of fluoridated water supplies, the application of fluoride periodically to the child's teeth.

Except in rare cases there is little reason why children cannot be assured a substantial measure of good dental health throughout their lives.

Meet Candidate Your

ARE YOUR TAXES TOO HIGH? ? ? - We have heard much about the relief Social Credit has given to the taxpayers of the province and the citizens of the Warner constituency.

The story has been told many times: "The old line parties had run the province into bankruptcy. The people were so far in debt they had almost given up hope. The credit of the province was ruined."

How many times have you heard it all?

Now as Mr. Manning says, "These are the facts." Twenty years of Social Credit has produced this:

In 1935 the province — in the midst of a world-wide depression — owed $167,000,000. At the same time the municipal debt amounted to $67,641,000. A total of $234,641,000 for the debt of the taxpayers of Alberta.

In 1955 the province — after 15 years of world-wide good times — still owes $85,000,000, and we, as municipal taxpayers, owe the staggering amount of $187,000,000. This makes a total of $272,000,000 or an INCREASE of $37,659,000 for us to try to redeem and pay interest on.

WHERE IS THE DEBT REDUCTION SOCIAL CREDITERS TALK ABOUT?

WHERE IS THE REDUCED INTEREST BURDEN FOR THE TAXPAYERS?

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE BILLION AND A QUARTER MR. MANNING HAS HAD TO SPEND SINCE 1945?

IS IT GUTTER POLITICS TO BRING THESE FACTS TO YOUR ATTENTION?

I pledge my support to reduction of your taxes through more careful administration of your money.

A vote for me is a vote for local government in working partnership with provincial government for reduction of your taxes.

On June 29th, vote

Evans, John L.

Also look at the small family unit. That family makes progress when all members are interested in each other, and help each other by loyal service and kindness, and even "going the second mile." But disunity will most surely destroy that family, just as surely as it will destroy a Nation.

Our community is just a big happy family, and to keep it happy, and keep it growing, we must be interested in Raymond, and our loyalty must be here. Let's boost Raymond! Let's not only do our buying here, but let's make it so attractive that our Out-of-Town friends will come here to trade because we can offer them more. Let's beautify our town, build nice parks and recreational facilities. Let's provide for ample parking space now, while we can, and our beautiful wide streets will make it a pleasure for people of all neighboring communities to visit us.

Look this page over. You will now find prices advertised, and your local merchants invite you to compare their prices with other prices further afield. Use your telephone more, and bring your local shopping center right in to your own home. We know the whole picture will convince you that we should all "Get on the Band-Wagon" for Raymond. Our merchants are determined to offer service, quality and price, equal to, or better than that you can obtain anywhere else. They need your support. You need the service they can offer, and we all need Raymond made better for us and our children.

The Chamber of Commerce invites your suggestions. If you do not now do the bulk of your buying here at home, you have a reason, so let's talk it over and see if we cannot eliminate any problem that stands in the way of "Build Raymond". Write us your ideas, and maybe we can help each other and in so doing build a better Raymond. Watch this column and read these ads, and see what is offered locally and at what price. With your loyal support this "Boost Raymond" campaign can be the biggest thing that has ever happened to us. Thank you.

Raymond & District Chamber of Commerce.

phone, the opposition members' smiles disappeared from their faces.

The legality of the Legislative Assembly Act covering the members setting in the House and doing business with the government no matter how trivial, will be dealt with by the courts. Mrs. Halmrast said, the Social Credit MLA's in the house have done nothing dishonest nor taken anything which was not legally theirs.

Mr. Halmrast stated that the opposition have even dug down into the files of all MLA's to try to find out something wrong that they have done in the past, but are not having any success.

He praised the government and gave an account of the wonderful record accomplished by the present government, especially in reducing the provincial debt, even before oil was the chief source of revenue of the province.

Mr. Hinman in his talk, reported the great work done by the government and praised the leaders both past and present for the work they have done.

Mr. Hinman gave the meeting some reasons why Social Credit is making great strides in Canada and stated the prospects were bright for the party elsewhere in Canada and urged us to carry on the work with a greater degree than in the past and especially to vote for Social Credit on June 29th.

Foreword

More than 20 years ago, Social Credit in Canada developed into an active movement to emancipate Canadians from the dictatorship of the money power and political party machines and to insulate the Canadian economy from the devastating effects of recurring depressions elsewhere in the world. After 20 years it stands as the great crusade for the betterment of mankind.

Social Credit is based upon the foundation of eternal principles. These can never be destroyed; they will be true for all men in all places at all times.

We believe that human individuals were created in the image of God, and therefore inherit, and should be accorded in the earthly scheme of things, a place of dignity as befits true sons of God.

We believe man was created a free moral agent and as such must have opportunity of exercising that freedom wherever it does not infringe upon the same freedom of others. His freedom to choose or refuse must be protected by the laws of the land and safeguarded by the administration of justice.

We believe that all things were created for the benefit and progress of all mankind and the glory of God.

We believe that man was given dominion over the whole earth; and that he subdues it and through his expanding genius he makes the earth yield in abundance; these good things of life should be made to bless all mankind.

We believe in government by the consent of the governed; that one of our most precious freedoms is the right to take part in our own government. All powers delegated to men must be surrounded by effective checks and balances so that none may exercise unrighteous domination over his fellows.

Social Crediters are dedicated to the task of teaching the people how to elect governments who will so reflect their will that they can obtain for themselves and posterity full realization of their rich heritage of economic security with individual freedom.

Election In Alberta

For the 6th time since the 1935 victory of Social Credit in Alberta, electors will go to the polls on June 29th, to return Premier Manning and his supporters with a renewed vote of confidence and a mandate to carry on the good work for another five years.

The election comes as a counter-thrust to the Opposition smear campaign which has been waged unceasingly since the House opened the 1955 Session. The final die was cast when the Liberal leader charged all MLA's with disqualification to sit if they had ever done normal business with the Provincial Treasury Branches. He even cast doubt on the validity of all legislation passed in the last 17 years.

Premier Manning earlier had replied to opposition smear charges, citing character assassination as an undemocratic method of attack. The last attack of all he decided should be answered by the people of Alberta themselves. He called for prorogation dissolution, and an election at the earliest possible date.

The long series of carefully planned attacks by both Liberal and Conservative members in the house bore all the earmarks of outside preparation. It has been revealed that actually, they are part of a campaign to discredit Social Credit in Alberta before Social Credit in Ottawa becomes a reality.

Premier Manning is honest enough and competent to keep the people informed of developments between now and June 29th. On that day, for the 6th consecutive time, Social Credit will be returned with customary overwhelming majority.

DO YOU KNOW

That, the Liberal Government in the Province 1905 - 1921 left a debt of 100 million dollars. The U.F.A. government, 1921 - 1935 left an additional debt of 67 million dollars, making a total of 167 million dollars debt to the government.

In two years, your Social Credit government reduced this debt by two million dollars. By 1946, (a full year before substantial oil revenues became available) the debt was reduced by 21 million.

Now, after 20 years of a Social Credit Administration, the province is really debt free, with assets in hand as follows at Dec. 31, 1954:—

Cash	$21,247,713.00
Bonds and Debentures	90,951,607.00
Loans to Municipalities (at low interest rates)	73,469,209.00
Loans to Alberta Gov't.
Telephones	40,845,992.00
TOTAL	$226,514,521.00

Liabilities:—
Total funded and unfunded debt $91,185,211.00

Provision has been made for the Provincial debt to be completely paid off by 1973 or earlier. The unpaid debt has been refunded at an interest rate of 2.82%—the lowest rate in Canada.

But — contrary to accusations made by opposition parties — this debt reduction has NOT been made at the expense of the municipalities. The cities, towns and villages are growing and installing up-to-date utilities. Their ratepayers are in favor of these improvements and have voted for them.

The Province is helping by providing loans at low interest rates out of money belonging to ALL the people of the Province — saving municipal taxpayers approximately 2 million dollars per annum in interest normally charged. Furthermore, all interest paid will remain within the province for the benefit of Albertans.

Loans to municipalities under the Self-Liquidating Projects Act at 2% (repayable over a maximum period of Municipal Capital Expenditures Loan Act (repayable over periods of 5 to 25 years at 2 1/4% to 3 1/4%) $64,335,835.

The decision to spend money for local improvements lies with the ratepayers of each municipality. The provincial government does not interfere with their free autonomy.

In 1935 it took 51% of all provincial revenue to pay interest alone on the provincial debt. In 1945 it took 14% of revenue to cover both principal and interest payments.

In 1955 it took only 2.11% of revenue for these payments.

Do You Know — That the province of British Columbia (now a Social Credit Gov't.) had an accumulated provincial debt to March 31, 1952, of $191,054,000 net, but Social Credit reduced these figures so that at August 2, 1954 (2 1/2 years) they stood at $140,570,000, a reduction of $50,484,000 in that length of time and the per capita debt reduced from $160.00 to $111.50.

Are not these figures convincing proof that the Social Credit governments are too valuable to let go? Just a little common sense government with common sense people at the helm. What are you going to do on June 29th. Vote for Social Credit by voting for Hon. L. C. Halmrast.

Cloisonne ware is produced by designing a piece on a metal base, using metal wires to outline the intricate pattern then filling in the colors with bright enamels, which are baked in, then the vase or box is ground down and polished.

The Japanese name is Shippo, or seven treasure ware. Originally, the inlays were precious jewels, mounted in gold, but now enamels take the place of jewels.

Over twenty processes are needed, including at least four bakings of the enamel. The originals were French, but now Japanese are better.

We also saw Damascene Jewelry work. In this jewelry, impressions are cut in a soft steel foundation. Then inlays of gold and silver are made by tweezers and hammer. All this is corroded by nitric acid and ammonia then lacquered and roasted and polished many times. Watching the men perform all these delicate and intricate designs on the clips and smaller articles is amazing microscopic work.

We could go on through Satsuma ware, Bronze ware, Kyoto Dolls, Bamboo work and Ivory carving, but you are tired already.

We shall leave the pearl story to tell later.

News From Your District Home Economist

Elizabeth M. Bartman,
Lethbridge

One of the greatest misfortunes is lost opportunity.

Today young people have greater opportunities than ever before yet unless they themselves or their friends and parents awake to these favorable conditions, our Canadians of the future will come short of their maximum gifts.

I would like to bring to mind the scholarships and bursaries available at the Schools of Agriculture and Home Economics. For the whole province there are 24 which are open to anyone who is eligible.

These include the Surplus Wheat Board Monies Trust Bursaries, the Henry Wise Wood Memorial Scholarships, the United Grain Growers' bursaries and the Canadian Legion Scholarships. A fair share of these are for boys and girls of this Southern part of the province. Would your boy or girl qualify for one?

What a great opportunity is awaiting them! For the schools at Olds, Vermilion and Fairview train young men for farming and young women as homemakers. The training offered to girls is designed to fit them for homemaking but it prepares them for employment as well. In either case the young people also have the opportunity for broadening horizons, a sure basis for a fuller and happy future.

You may ask, what courses are offered? The answer is: courses in practical agriculture and homemaking, with instruction in typing and business training for the girls to assist them in securing more satisfactory employment during the few years before they become homemakers. Additional subjects include — English literature, composition, public speaking, arithmetic, and rural sociology.

Who may attend?

Answer: Any young man or woman who has reached the age of 16 years may attend. Preference is given to older students. It is desirable that prospective students have completed a least Grade VIII. Students desiring to enrol in the two-in-one course must have "B" standing in 70 high school credits.

What about entrance to university?

Answer: Graduates in Agriculture and Home Economics from the Schools of Agriculture may enrol in the course in agriculture or home economics provided they have not less than "B" standing in 70 high school credits including certain constant subjects. The courses offered at schools of Agriculture also help students to decide whether or not they wish to go on for university training. Students who intend to go to university should discuss their plans with the principal, as certain changes in the university's requirements will become effective in 1955 and in 1956.

What about older students?

Answer: Older men and women are most welcome. Throughout the years a number of mature men and women have graduated. Maturity is an advantage and in all cases these older students have made good use of their training. Older youth should also be encouraged to attend these schools.

What do the graduates do?

Answer: Most of the boys return to their home farms. Some secure employment in various businesses, e.g., buyers or field service men for grain organizations, salesmen, Service Board Supervisors, implement agents, creamerymen and hatcherymen. Many girls seek employment for a few years before being married. The addition of typing and employment training to the course in home economics will assist girls to get better jobs. Girls obtain such work as clerks, receptionists, dining room clerks, telephone operators, housekeepers, etc.

More detailed information may be obtained from the principal of any school of agriculture and home economics, or from your District Home Economist or District Agriculturist.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garner, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Art Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Garner and Mrs. Reva Heggie attended the funeral of Mr. Alex Leshman of Hillspring. He was related to the Garners and Andersons by marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brewerton and Dr. and Mrs. Steele Brewerton of Magrath motored to Lethbridge to help Mrs. Ted Brewerton celebrate her birthday. Chinese food was enjoyed at Dusty's Supper Club.

At our annual meeting, this program was given a unanimous "OK," and it has been endorsed by our Mayor and Council. May I outline this project for you now, and ask for your approval and wholehearted support.

Our efforts during the past year have been rewarded by many accomplishments for the betterment of Raymond, and we appreciate the loyal support of everyone. Three items are outstanding:—A surfaced highway, Paving for our Main Street, and Natural Gas for our community. Can we do as much for our town in the next twelve months? We believe that with your loyal support, we can.

At our Chamber Annual Meeting, we were asked to direct the work for the year, pledged ourselves to work for a better community through a "Buy At Home" campaign. Everyone is thoroughly sold on this idea to some extent. If you are in business you know that your particular line should be bought at home. Are you equally enthused about buying at home when the "Other Fellow" is on the selling end and you are the purchaser? Let's remember, it works both ways. Our income comes to us here, so, let's keep as much of it here as possible, and perhaps a greater portion of it will circulate back to us the second and third time. Then perhaps we are sold on buy at home when it's credit buying, but not so inclined when we pay cash. If so, let's all realize that someone has to pay for credit, and not expect the impossible from those who are so willing to see us over the rough spot when we require credit. Talk it over with your merchant, and I am sure he will have a better deal for you than you can find anywhere else.

Shall we look at the matter from another angle? What would happen to a Nation if the citizens of that Nation placed their loyalties elsewhere? As we look at history, the result of seeking selfish ends has many times brought civil war, and the ultimate result has been the decay of that Nation, unless loyalty has been established.
